

Ember Defender Steel Hearth Pads

Protection for Your Floors

TYPE 1 - Ember Defender

Steel Hearth Pads (Ember Protection Only)

All wood, pellet, coal and corn freestanding stoves require protection from falling embers. The Ember Defender is a thin (1/8" thick), heavy-gauge affordable hearth pad that only protects from falling embers. This hearth pad does not provide any thermal protection.

- Provides excellent Type 1 protection.
- Heavy 10-gauge powder-coated steel.
- No removal of carpeting required.
- Listed to UL 1618 tested protection for your family's safety/security.
- Ground strap kit available if needed.
- Manufactured in the USA.

Color Options

The Ember Defender steel hearth pad is available in black, which is slightly textured and the same on both sides. The Ember Defender is also available with an Artisan finish, done by lightly grinding the steel and applying heat to one side. When complete, a clear powder-coat is applied to both sides. The result is one side will have more of a Bronze/Blue color, and the other will have more of a Blue/Bronze color. No two will ever be the same.

Shapes & Sizes

Our steel hearth pads are offered in the most popular sizes and shapes. Please consult your owner's manual to determine the clearance requirements of your stove. Your hearth pad dealer can then help you choose the most appropriate pad size and shape.
